Converting FoxPro Files to Excel

Background:

FoxPro is a database program published by Microsoft. Information stored in its files is stored in .DBF format (Database) and can be converted to Excel with a DBF Viewer (see below).

The Quarterly CECs are inputted into FoxPro and stored in a series of DBF files. Due to FoxPro's hardcode programming, only a limited number of useful files are downloadable. Locate where your files are stored. The files will look like this:

DBF Viewer

The viewer is a small (1.75 MB) program and can be copied onto your computer.

It is a relatively easy program to navigate.

Using the DBF Viewer:

When the software is launched, the viewer will look like this:

• Once you've clicked the "Open" Button, a pop-up menu will appear. Put in the appropriate pathway for the DBF file (FoxPro). This is the source folder where DBF Viewer will pull files.

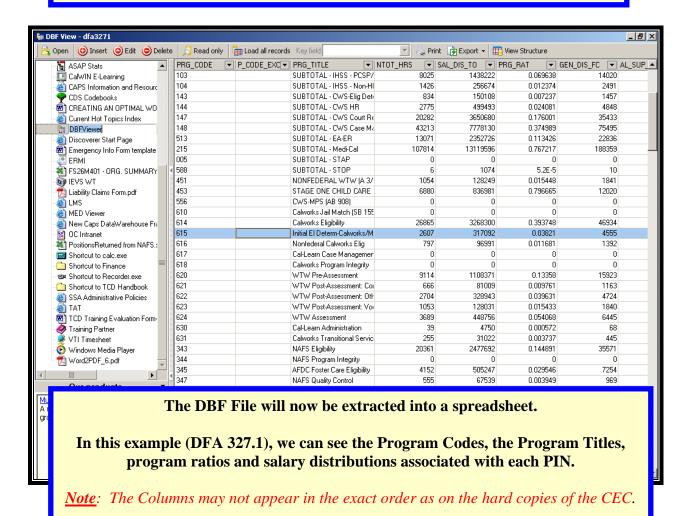

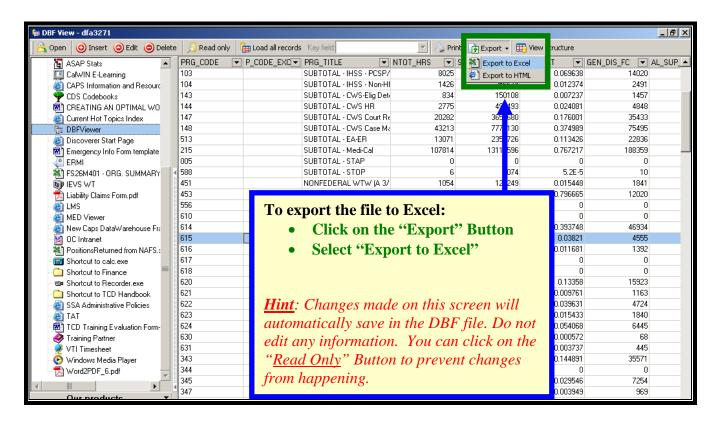

- Select the file name
- Click "Open"

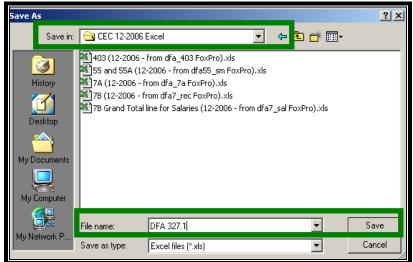

In our example, we've selected a file titled "dfa3271.dbf". This is for report DFA 327.1 – Distribution of Salaries, Allocation and Operating Costs.

F:\DBF viewer\converting 1 one to 1 nes to Executivesentation version.uoc

1 age + 01 0

Select a folder to export the file:

- Choose a name for the file
- Press "Save"

Note: Once the file is saved, you can open it up with Excel. Formatting may be required to ensure that the report is user-friendlier.
